- Using an up to date version of WinRar, when you press 'Import', you will find that the apps which are installed on your PC are shown on the left panel of the program. If you see the blue icon, which indicates that the app is being backed up, press the corresponding button to continue. If you have a backup already made, you can always select it and click on the 'Export' button. This feature allows you to save your backups to any archive format, not just to a ZIP file. You can choose the preferred format before pressing the 'Export' button. And it's also possible to select which apps to backup. With the 'Import' option, you are given the possibility of importing the backup files stored in a ZIP archive. It is not possible to restore apps that are not installed on the PC where the restore takes place. The program features an automatic detection system that will allow the software to find and restore all the apps that are installed on the PC, as long as they are compatible with the current version of Windows 8. If you are going to restore an app that is already installed, the program will ask you to select a location for the backup. After you have selected the destination, it is time to confirm the operation by clicking on the 'OK' button. When it is completed, you can perform a restore on the app.
