Category:Windows Ask HN: What do you do with older hardware? - hardwaresofton I'm going to be moving soon (somewhere warm and humid, and short on space), and I'm thinking of donating some computers, monitors, and other "sunny day dreams". (A more definite goal is donating all of it, but this question is more interesting.)I'm looking for anything I can use to increase the value of that money. (If you're donating to a good cause, or otherwise have an urge to keep some of it, that's a bonus.)Since I'm moving to the US, I'm more interested in the tech in the country (the US, Canada, UK, etc.)If anyone has anything to suggest, it'd be awesome (and expected of you, since I can't see anyone else asking -- I'm opening this up to the community). ====== twic Headphones, a long cord, a long USB cable, the charger for the battery pack, maybe a converter for the wall plug to usb, a battery pack for the phone. A lot of chargers need to be wall-powered, because USB is rubbish at converting AC current into DC. But at the very least, the wall plug and charger should be the same thing, and you can use any old phone charger that you don't want to take along. As for where to donate it, if it's old and you don't want it, don't use it anymore, send it somewhere
