Expedition: Everest" on Pinterest.Q: Display of various webpages in same HTML file I have a web application which needs to display different sets of webpages.

Basically, I'll have two or more webpages. The user will be able to click on a link/button and all the data from one of the webpage should be copied to the current webpage. I was thinking of using hidden form fields and then read the value of those fields. The problem is, my program will be used by many people and I don't want to have to open up their internet explorer and type all of their information. So, is there any way to display two or more webpages in the same html file? Or, is there some way to paste data from one webpage to another? I 79a2804d6b
