Islam: Enduring Values for Humanity is the most comprehensive and authoritative collection of materials on the life and teachings of Islam to date. Part of the Vision of a Great Civilization series, it features a foreword by the renowned author and speaker, Seyyed Hossein Nasr. With contributions from leading scholars around the world, including a variety of authors from America, Britain, Canada, Egypt, Germany, and Israel, this unique volume explores all aspects of Islam, from theology, ethics, and social structure to spirituality, sacred history, and poetry. All entries are by or for the benefit of individual Muslims, with no intention to create propaganda or influence. All aspects of the religion are explored in depth. For more than a decade, the two authors, well-known for their scholarship on Islamic spirituality, have been compiling a directory of Muslims in the world. This latest book makes up the second volume of their directory, containing almost 20,000 entries with contact details, biographical details, and areas of activity. Comment on The Daily Telegraph Professor Ahmad Tibi, a renowned expert on Palestinian affairs and a senior member of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, once referred to Salafism as a "political Islam." (Salafis often favor reforms that reflect the culture of the time.) The article also notes that even after the September 11 attacks, global Muslim populations continued to grow, averaging 2% per year. Since then, they have grown even faster, from approximately 1.3% of the world's population in 2001 to 2.2% today.

Emergence and epidemiology of ESBL-producing Enterobacteriaceae in Italy: a report of the European antimicrobial resistance surveillance network (EARS-Net) during 2006-2010. Emergence and epidemiology of ESBL-producing Enterobacteriaceae (ESBL-PE) in Europe was monitored in a network of 24 centres in 2006-2010. A total of 105 local microbiological laboratories contributed data, overall reporting a total of 3410 ESBL-PE isolates, and three major regional clusters were detected. The proportion of ESBL-PE in Enterobacteriaceae isolated in Italy increased progressively during the study period (from 0.6 to 0.8%) in parallel with the increase in the proportion of CTX-M-type ESBLs (from 17% to 27%). The proportion of ESBL-PE isolates resistant to ciprofloxacin increased from 4%

Next, cut the fabric with excess length on the inside the size of the interior of the plastic pot. Fold the fabric so the inside is on the outside. Now you should have a pot like the one in the picture but a little taller, or wider. Take the fabric inside the pot and pin the fabric down on the inside walls. Make sure the fabric inside fits properly. Once your fabric is pinned, stitch the fabric to the inside of the pot. Cotton is the best fabric to use for this. Now, set your lid on the pot and sew the lid back together with a few stitches. Open the pot to check the size. It should be a little larger than the plastic pail. Use the remaining fabric to make a second pot. Remember, you only need one to start with, the others are for measurements. Finally, sew the lid back to the pot. Turn it inside out. If you lined the pot, turn the lining back into the pot first. Then turn the pot inside out and make sure the layers are all tucked in nicely. Now you are done, and the fabric bags are ready for the rest of the house! We enjoyed this project, and I will be sewing some more fabric pails and hanging them up in the house soon.
